

Abstract

A device 10 for the shakeproof accommodation of electrical special components 11, 12 and/or electrical circuits, particularly in a development as a second component set in a control unit, is made up of a carrier 13, onto which a circuit substrate 14, having special components 11, 12 fastened to it, is mounted in an electrically insulated manner over a partial surface, preferably by adhesion.

(Figure 1)